MOST IMPORTANT THING LEARN

- Mark learned that he is not always 'the guy'--
  - That ONE is too small a number for any type of significant success;
  - To be successful on a significant level, he is going to have to involve other people.
- This lesson changes the scope or the lens of how he views the world and his life.
  - To date, what is the most important lesson you have learned? How has it contributed to the lens through which you view your life?
